Publicity is the chief motor chosen by commerce to bring success. But there's a difference in advertising methods just as there's a difference in horses. And different effects must result from different treatment of this subject. So the amount of PUSH you get for your advertising depends upon the amount of PUSH you put into it—no more—no less. We are experts upon this subject. Twenty years' experience is yours for the asking. Twenty pears' experience is yours for the asking.

Thomas E. Peddicord Found Dead in is His Bed. Thomas E. Peddicord was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the home of W. C. Wilkinson, 311 New Jersey avenue southeast, having gone to bed Saturday night and left the gas turned on at full head. Coroner Nevitt made an investigation and reached the conclusion that the affair was an accident. It is believed that Peddicord blew out the gas. Peddicord was thirty-seven years old. and lived at Gaithersburg, Montgomery county, Md. He was an architect and builder, and had recently returned from Newport News, where he had been engaged in business. His wife and three children are at present stopping at the home of her father, Thomas Briggs, a farmer, near Gaithersburg. Several days ago Peddicord came here to look for a business opening. and Saturday night he attended one of the theaters, where he met Mr. Wilkinson When the performance was concluded Mr. Peddicord went home with Mr. Wilkinson, whose wife and two near relatives were also members of the party. On account of the bad weather Peddicord was induced to remain over night at the home of the Wilkinsons, and yesterday morning about 11 o'clock his dead body was found. Relatives were notified of his death. His body will be buried at Gaithersburg.

ISSUANCE OF PERMITS.

Chapter of Institute of Architects Discusses Regulations.

The District Commissioners have received from F. B. Pyle, secretary of the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, a copy of resolutions passed by the chapter on the subject of the issuance of permits under the building regulations. The resolutions state: "In many points the building regulations are obscure and much time and money are lost because the owners of property and the local architects are unable to gain information as to the attitude of the Commissioners regarding permits.

"The Washington Chapter is in favor of the most rigid limitations of projections upon and the occupation of public property, and suggests that the building regulations express privileges and limitations with ex-The granting of special permit in certain cases which abrogate the regula-tions, as published, introduces elements of uncertainty tending to great dissatisfaction and leads to a belief that the regulations can be evaded, and this, in our judgment, is detrimental to public interest.
